

CHARTERED MANAGER OF THE YEAR 2020

MANISHA MISTRY
Head of Digital Culture, Rolls-Royce Plc

“
Being Chartered has enabled me to not only benefit from accessing world-class resources but more crucially, connect and engage with an incredibly diverse community.

“
I WAS TAKEN ABACK TO FIND OUT I WAS SHORTLISTED, BUT TO WIN THIS PRESTIGIOUS AWARD LEFT ME SPEECHLESS!

“I am incredibly proud of what I have achieved and this award re-confirms that the effort was absolutely worth it and the outcomes achieved are a testament to the power of enabling others.

Deciding to become Chartered was about ensuring my skills remained fresh and my thinking open to new ways of practising leadership in action. I continually challenge myself to be at my best so I can pursue my evolving career aspirations confidently and as such, I wanted a qualification that best recognises, reflects and supports these attributes.

Becoming a Chartered Manager has enabled me to take that leap of faith in trying something new or different. It is incredibly empowering to be able to evidence a direct correlation between the skills I have developed as a Chartered Manager to the outputs I have delivered in roles I have undertaken.

I haven't thought of the Chartership as a process, more of a journey of learning experiences to become the best version of myself. This validated my initial decision to choose CMI as the focus of obtaining Chartered manager was logical, well supported and focussed on leadership in action. It really helped me to remove the feeling of imposter syndrome I had placed on myself.”

Manisha Mistry is the Head of Digital Culture at Rolls-Royce and believes that a blended mix of learning is key to being at your best in management “whilst the debate is on-going on the values of academic versus practical experience relative to personal effectiveness in a role, the key is blending the two, such that you are always practicing what you have learnt and learning from what you are practicing.”
