

Pathways to Management and Leadership

Level 5: Management and Leadership

Unit 501

Principles of Management & Leadership in an Organisational Context

Pathways to Management and Leadership

Unit 501: Principles of Management & Leadership in an Organisational Context

Copyright © Chartered Management Institute, Management House, Cottingham Road, Corby, Northants, NN17 1TT.

First edition 2018

Author: Gwyn Thomas
Project Manager: Dr Kevin Roe
Editor: Tony Evans

British Library Cataloguing in Publication Data. A catalogue record for this title is available from the British Library.

ISBN: 0-85946-760-0

All rights reserved, save as set out below. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise, without the written permission of the copyright holder except in accordance with the provisions of the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988 or under the terms of a licence issued by the Copyright Licensing Agency Ltd, Barnard's Inn, 86 Fetter Lane, London, EC4A 1EN.

Applications for the copyright holder's written permission to reproduce any part of this publication should be addressed to the publisher. Permission may be sought directly from Chartered Management Institute in Corby, UK. Phone Publications on (+44) (0) 1536 207379, or e-mail publications@managers.org.uk for further information.

This publication is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form of binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

Approved centres may purchase a licence from the publisher, enabling PDF files of the publication to be printed or otherwise distributed solely within the centre for teacher and student use only according to the terms and conditions of the licence.

Further information on the licence is available from Chartered Management Institute. Phone (+44) (0) 1536 207379, or email publications@managers.org.uk.

Principles of Management & Leadership in an Organisational Context

SAMPLE

Contents

About this workbook.....	7
The unit	7
The aims of this workbook	7
Syllabus coverage	8
Getting started	9
How to use the workbook.....	9
 Section 1 Understand factors which impact on an organisation's internal environment	13
The impact of legal status on the governance of organisations	13
The purpose of an organisation's vision and mission statements	16
The impact of organisational structure on management roles	18
The impact of ethics and values on decision making in an organisation's	22
Supporting resources.....	27
Summary	28
 Section 2 Understand the application of management and leadership theories	29
Evaluate the relationship between management and leadership.....	29
The impact of management and leadership styles on individuals and teams	34
The influence of culture and values on management and leadership styles ..	40
Adapting leadership and management styles to different situations	47
Supporting resources.....	53
Summary	54
 Section 3 Understand the knowledge, skills and behaviours to be effective in a management & leadership role.....	57
The knowledge and skills required for a management and leadership role ...	57
Evaluating the factors that impact on the selection of communication techniques required to be effective in a management and leadership role	65
The behaviours required to be effective in a management & leadership role ..	69
Developing an approach for building a culture of mutual trust, respect and support with teams and individuals	73
Supporting resources.....	77
Summary	78

Before you move on 81

Preparing for assessment 81

Reflecting on progress 83

Planning your next steps 83

The Management and Leadership Standards 84

Further resources 87

SAMPLE

About this workbook

The unit

The main purpose of this workbook is to support you as you study for the Chartered Management Institute Level 5 Qualification — Management and Leadership, so it specifically focuses on the content of the syllabus for Unit 501, Principles of Management and Leadership in an Organisational Context. This is about the way in which you lead and motivate your team to achieve organisational goals.

This workbook provides underpinning knowledge and develops understanding to improve your skills as well as to prepare for future assessment. If you are studying towards Level 5 in Management and Leadership then, if you choose to do so, you will be assessed by your approved centre on your knowledge and understanding of the following learning outcomes:

1. Understand factors which impact on an organisation's internal environment
2. Understand the application of management and leadership theories
3. Understand the knowledge, skills and behaviours to be effective in a management and leadership role.

The aims of this workbook

This workbook aims to help you learn how to:

- Determine the culture, structure and purpose of an organisation and the impact of its values and culture on decision making within it
- Establish between leadership and management considering the impact of different leadership styles, how those styles need to be adapted for different situations and the influence of culture and values on those styles
- Identify the knowledge, skills, behaviours and communication required to be effective in a management and leadership role to determine an approach to build a culture of mutual trust, respect and support with people.

This workbook is about how you can:

Apply these aims to gain a greater understanding of your organisational context to develop and sharpen your leadership effectiveness to enhance your personal effectiveness as a leader and a manager.

Syllabus coverage

The table below shows which sections of the workbook address the assessment criteria of the qualification syllabus.

Unit 501 Principles of Management and Leadership in an Organisational Context Syllabus coverage		Addressed within section
1.1	Examine the impact of legal status on the governance of an organisation	1
1.2	Analyse the purpose of an organisation's mission and vision statements	1
1.3	Examine the impact of organisational structures on management roles	1
1.4	Discuss the impact of organisational values and ethics on management decision making	1
2.1	Evaluate the relationship between management and leadership	2
2.2	Analyse the impact of management and leadership styles on individuals and teams	2
2.3	Discuss the influence of culture and values on management and leadership styles	2
2.4	Examine how management and leadership styles are adapted in different situations	2
3.1	Assess the knowledge and skills required for a management and leadership role	3
3.2	Evaluate the factors that impact on the selection of communication techniques required to be effective in a management and leadership role	3
3.3	Analyse the behaviours required to be effective in a management and leadership role	3
3.4	Develop an approach for building a culture of mutual trust, respect and support with teams and individuals	3

Getting started

The Principles of Management and Leadership in an organisational context lay the foundation of the leadership and management role and as such are key for a manager to be effective in their role. Recognising and understanding what they are, how they might help and what might need to be developed to meet the responsibilities of the role are all valuable activities for the manager to undertake.

To begin with a manager needs to understand how their organisation operates, to think about the type of organisation it is and how it is governed. To do this you need to understand the factors which influence the culture and the purpose of an organisation's mission, vision, values and strategies.

The role of a manager can vary but it will often involve communicating organisation strategy to both individuals and teams. The manager needs to understand the levels of accountability and authority that go with the role and should also be aware of the legal and organisational frameworks which apply.

The manager should be able to explain the differences between managing and leading. They also need to be aware of the different leadership and management theories, styles and approaches to both so that they can select them to different situations.

Finally, an effective manager should understand the knowledge, skills, behaviour and communication techniques required within the role and the impact of those on the team, colleagues and customers.

This workbook sets out to explore the principles of management and leadership within an organisational context that are required for those within or starting out in a management role, with the aim of sharpening their professional edge and enhancing their personal leadership effectiveness.

How to use the workbook

The workbook provides ideas from writers and thinkers in the management and leadership field. They offer opportunities for you to investigate and apply these ideas within your working environment and job-role.

Structure

Each workbook is divided into sections that together cover the knowledge and understanding required for that unit of Level 5 Management and Leadership. Each section starts with a clear set of objectives that identify the background knowledge to be covered, and the management skills in the workplace that enable you to demonstrate this knowledge. You do not have to complete the sections in the order they appear in the workbook, but you should try to cover them all to make sure that your work on the unit is complete. There are self-assessment questions at the end of each section that allow you to check your progress.

You may want to discuss your answers to the self-assessment questions with your line manager or a colleague.

Activities

Throughout the workbooks there are activities for you to complete. These activities are designed to help you to develop yourself as a manager. Space is provided within the activities for you to enter your own thoughts or findings. Feedback is then provided to confirm your input or to offer more ideas for you to consider.

To get the best from the workbooks, you should try to complete each activity fully before moving on. However, if the answer is obvious to you because the issue is one you have encountered previously, then you might just note some bullet points that you can then compare quickly against the feedback. You may sometimes find it difficult to write your complete response to an activity in the space provided. Don't worry about this — just keep a separate notebook handy, which you can use and refer to as needed.

Try not to look at the feedback section before completing an activity. You might like to try covering up the feedback with a postcard or piece of paper while you are working through an activity.

Timings

Timings are suggested for each section and activity, although it is important that you decide how much time to spend on an activity. Some activities may occupy only a few moments' thought, while others may be of particular interest and so you might decide to spend half an hour or more exploring the issues. This is fine — the purpose of the activities is to help you reflect on what you are doing, and to help you identify ways of enhancing your effectiveness. It is always worth writing something though, even if it's brief — the act of writing will reinforce your learning much more effectively than just referring to the feedback.

Scenarios

There are scenarios and examples throughout each workbook to illustrate key points in real workplace settings. The scenarios cover a wide range of employment sectors. As you work through, you might like to think of similar examples from your own experience.

Planning your work

The reading and reflection, scenarios and activities in each section of the workbooks are designed to take around two hours to complete (although some may take longer). This is a useful indicator of the minimum length of time that you should aim to set aside for a study session. Try to find a quiet place where you will not be interrupted and where you can keep your workbooks, notes and papers reasonably tidy. You may also like to think about the time of day when you work best — are you a 'morning person' who likes to get things done at the start of the day, or do you work better in the evening when there may be fewer disturbances?

Preparing for assessment

Further information on assessment is available in the Qualification Support section of ManagementDirect, CMI's online resource portal. If you have any further questions about assessment procedures, it is important that you resolve these with your tutor or centre co-ordinator as soon as possible.

Further reading

Suggestions for further reading and links to management resources such as CMI Checklists, CMI Models, Leader Videos and journal articles are available via ManagementDirect. You will also find titles for further reading in the Further Resources at the end of this workbook.

SAMPLE

SAMPLE

Section 1 Understand factors which impact on an organisation's internal environment

Learning outcomes and assessment criteria (about 1.5 hours)

By the end of this section you will understand the factors which impact on an organisation's internal environment. In this Section, you will:

1.1	Examine the impact of legal status on the governance of an organisation
1.2	Analyse the purpose of an organisation's mission and vision statements
1.3	Examine the impact of organisational structures on management roles
1.4	Discuss the impact of organisational values and ethics on management decision making

The impact of legal status on the governance of organisations

Governance is the way the rules, norms and actions are structured, sustained, regulated and people held accountable. In other words, it is the process that ensures authority, decision making and accountability within organisations. Seifi & Crowther (2017: 8) suggest that good governance embeds the four key principles of: (1) Transparency; (2) Accountability; (3) Responsibility; (4) Fairness.

According to Seifi & Crowther (2017: 9) the benefits of good governance include:

- increasing the market value of organisations
- increasing competitive power
- attracting new investors & stakeholders
- increased equity
- higher credibility
- new investment opportunities
- attracting talented people / staff
- reaching into new markets.

The amount of formality of governance is usually determined by the internal rules of an organisation and, externally, by its business partners.

As such, governance may take many forms, driven by many different factors that will include its legal status, structure and the organisation type i.e. whether it is a public, private or third sector organisation.

As alluded to above the legal status of an organisation has a key impact on its governance; for example, a non-profit organisation may be governed by a small board of directors and pursue specific aims set down by those directors.

This legal status and its impact on the governance of different organisations is now further explored across private, public and charitable organisations.

There are two broad categories of privately owned organisations in the UK i.e. those not owned by the state. This distinction is made by the status of the organisation in the eyes of the law (its legal status). We will now explore these two categories of non-incorporated and incorporated organisations. The distinction between these categories are their differing legal entities.

Within non-incorporated organisations the legal entity is the person. The most common of this category of organisation are:

The Sole Trader that is the most simplistic type of an organisation that is owned and managed by one person who makes sole decisions in relation to the organisation. It has total control and accountability over the governance and management of the organisation.

A Partnership is a type of organisation that is structured around two or more partners. All Partners will have equal say in the decision making, accountability and ownership of the organisation and directly influence its governance and management apart from when the other Partners agree to elevate one of their number to position of 'Senior Partner'.

Within incorporated organisations the legal entity is the organisation itself. The most common of this category of organisation are:

A Public Limited Company (PLC) is a type of organisation that is owned by its Shareholders that can influence the organisational decision making. As such it has 'Shares' that are publicly listed on the stock market and are available for public purchase and sale. It will usually have a 'Board' that can be very influential in its accountability structures and its management and governance.

A Limited Company (Ltd) is a type of organisation that in similarity to the PLC (as described above) also has Shareholders. The difference being that these people are often company Founders or Directors that constitute the Board and directly influence the decision making, accountability, governance and management of the organisation. Again, in similarity to the PLC this type of organisation has 'Shares'. The difference to the PLC being that these are not publicly available for purchase or sale on the stock market.

Having looked briefly at some different types of private organisations we can now turn to publically owned organisations.

Public Sector Organisations (NHS Trusts, Local Authorities, Police Services and Government Agencies) are all types of organisations that are owned and operated by the government (UK or devolved governments) for the benefit of the country and the public. They generally have Trustees who are very influential in organisational accountability and its governance and management. However, the government can also be very influential in accountability and decision making regarding the performance of the organisation particularly when this originates from or is driven by public opinion.

Having looked briefly at publically owned businesses we can now turn to charitable organisations.

Charitable Organisations (Charities, Voluntary, Not for Profit) are types of an organisation that are owned and operated through a Charitable Trust and in similarity to Public Sector Organisations will have Trustees.

The difference in this type of organisation is that the Trustees have total control over the accountability, governance and management of the organisation that can often be highly influenced by the opinions of other stakeholders.

Activity

1.1 What kind of organisation do you work in?

(about 10 minutes)

Find out what type of organisation you work for?

Feedback

You will have determined whether your organisation is an incorporated or unincorporated organisation and which of the previously mentioned categories it falls within. Hopefully this will assist you in better understanding your own organisation in how it works and its governance.

Now we move onto explore the purpose of an organisation's vision and mission statements.